

"Most Attractive and Progressive Hendersonville!"

Says "The Southern Field," S. V. Richard's Paper, Published by Southern Railway Company

The towns and cities in the Blue Ridge Mountain district of the South are all exhibiting a most active and progressive spirit, and all are enjoying a period of prosperity and steady advance. One of the most attractive and progressive of all the mountain places is Hendersonville, N. C., on the Asheville-Spartanburg line of the Southern Railway. This town has long been a favored and attractive resort place on account of its climate, the beauty of its location and the picturesqueness of its surrounding country. There are fine hotels and many beautiful cottages built to accommodate the people who resort there for either the summer or winter season and many homes erected by those who have selected the place for permanent residence on account of the varied attractions. Hendersonville is 2,250 feet above the sea, has a mean annual temperature of about 55 degrees, with a winter mean of about 37 and a summer mean of about 71, with warm, pleasant days and cool nights. In addition to its own attractiveness, it is the gateway to the Lake Tox-away country. But Hendersonville is something more than a resort town. It is a business place of much importance and of greater promise. The tributary country is rich. The soils are fertile and the lands suited to a varied agriculture, while the hill and mountain sides are adapted to apples, peaches, grapes and other fruits. The rainfall, the soils and the climate combine to make the farmer's work in this vicinity tell. Henderson is one of the largest fruit growing counties in the State. In it are many commercial orchards. What the lands will do is shown by the farm of Mr. Henry Jordan. This year, after cutting 30 tons of hay from 18 acres, he planted corn on the land, and he confidently expects to gather 1,500 bushels, or over 83 bushels an acre. On his place last winter he fed over 90 head of cattle. Mr. A. Cannon of the same county, in a letter to the Progressive Farmer, reports a yield of 65 bushels of corn to the acre on six acres. This was on land which formerly yielded only twelve bushels to the acre, having been run down by bad treatment. Two years ago this land, planted in wheat, yielded 24 bushels an acre. Mr. Cannon raises stock, and has found the county first class for that industry. A large amount of truck is grown in this region for home markets and for shipment. Hendersonville is a place with many advantages for industries of various kinds, especially for textile mills and woodworking plants. The business of the place is in a flourishing condition. One of its older banks has recently doubled its capital stock to keep up with the necessities of its business, and a new bank with a capital of $150,000 has just been established. There is an active commercial organization at work for the advancement of the town. There are now about 5,000 people in the place, and the growth is such that the number will soon be greatly increased. Its appeal is especially to people who wish to establish country or permanent homes in one of the most delightful regions of the whole country, or who are looking for locations for many classes of industry; while the low-priced lands of the surrounding districts offer splendid opportunities to farmers, stock raisers and fruit growers.

"Come to Hendersonville after me. Come at once. Nellie."

So read a mysterious letter, written on Blue Ridge Inn stationery, received Wednesday by Mr. J. O. Hamblin, of Asheville. "Nellie" is his wife—a second venture on the troubled seas of matrimony, who left Asheville some little time ago, taking with her, it is alleged, some $400 of her husband's money.

In response to the letter Mr. Hamblin arrived today and has been searching the town over for his young and pretty wife, who gave him no clue, in her letter, as to her place of residence here.

Mr. Hamblin, who is an elderly man, much older in fact than his young wife, has spent the day in a vain search for her and his missing $400.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Mrs. Nellie Hamblin will ease the aching heart of a distracted husband by communicating with him at once, or leaving the information at the Hustler office.

Street Roller for Town and County

Hendersonville and the county of Henderson will have a big new steam street roller was the general sentiment last night at the meeting of the City Fathers. A committee of councilmen were appointed to confer with the board of county supervisors about the matter and decide definitely when the machine can be ordered and arrange a schedule as to the time when it can be used by the city and county authorities so as not to conflict.

This will be a great addition to the working facilities of the city and county and will benefit the traveling public much in coming to the city during bad weather. It is the starting of the "good roads movement," with this rolling machine the street pavement can commence at once.

Mrs. Dickinson Dead.

Nashville, Tenn., September 7. Mrs. Helen Dickinson, wife of Overton Dickinson, son of the Secretary of War, died this morning at Bellemeade, near here, of heart failure. She was Miss Trenholm, of Charleston, S. C.

Mrs. Dickinson was formerly Miss Helen Trenholm, of this city, but spent the greater part of her early life in Flat Rock, N. C., where her parents, Col. and Mrs. Savage Trenholm, at that time resided. She was the granddaughter, on her mother's side of Gen. Ripley, of Fort Sumter fame, and on her father's side of Mr. Edward Trenholm. Mrs. Dickinson achieved some literary reputation for her book of poems, "St. Michael's and Other Poems," and before her marriage was distinguished as a trained nurse for children's diseases. It is said that she had been in poor health for some time before her death. Charleston News and Courier.

Mr. Shipman Back.

The family of Mr. M. L. Shipman, Commissioner of Labor and Printing, has again taken up their residence at corner of West Edenton and North McDowell streets, after an absence of several weeks spent in Hendersonville, Brevard and elsewhere in the mountains. They found it necessary to vacate the house so that the contractors might make improvements in the building. Mr. Shipman, who went to Hendersonville some time ago to visit his family and be present at the State Convention of County Superintendents, returned to the city Sunday greatly enthused over the prospects for a "Greater Hendersonville." He says that city was literally packed with summer tourists during the month of August and many contemplate remaining till the end of September.

As to the future prospects of his home town Mr. Shipman is optimistic. He says that in addition to the three banks already established there, a new financial institution capitalized at $150,000 has just been organized and will soon begin business. All the side-walks in the city are soon to be laid in concrete similar to those on the beautiful Main Street and work on an electric street railway system is to begin within twenty days. Mr. Shipman avers that eminent capitalists have an eye on Hendersonville, and the question of establishing manufacturing enterprises of various kinds is being considered. Climatic conditions are very desirable and there is labor in abundance. The city wants cotton mill, furniture factories and miscellaneous factories of all sorts and sizes. —Raleigh News and Observer.

CAPITALISTS WORKING IN CITY OF ASHEVILLE

Asheville citizens are very much interested in the proposed interurban electric road between Hendersonville and Asheville.

The following is what the Asheville Gazette-News says:

"Over in Hendersonville the talk is all about a street railway, or rather several of them. The people of the progressive town seem determined to have an electric car line, and at one time there were three different companies contemplating the building of a line. It now seems that one of these companies has withdrawn and H. S. Anderson and the capitalists represented by him and the ones represented by R. M. Oats have got together on the proposition of railway construction, and provided the people of Hendersonville subscribed $20,000 stock in the company, they offer to construct a belt line.

In connection with the construction of the electric line in Hendersonville, C. F. White of Asheville and J. C. Fawcett of New York, who are interested in the construction of an electric line between Asheville and Hendersonville, have been in Hendersonville this week in conference with representatives of the proposed belt line with the view of securing right of way for the Asheville and Hendersonville Electric line over the tracks of the Hendersonville Electric system in the town of Hendersonville. These gentlemen state that they intend to construct the line between these two places within the near future and that financial conditions are now such that money can be readily secured for the project.

Should these projected lines be completed the development of Western North Carolina, especially in regard to the tourist business, will be greatly accelerated by the linking together by electric lines of principal resort towns in this section. Rapid and convenient transit will therefore be afforded and suburban property greatly benefitted."

Plain Talks on Fertilizers Increasing and Safeguarding the Wheat-Crop

The use of commercial fertilizers on the wheat crop is yearly becoming more general—proof enough that it pays, and pays well.

Too many farmers, however, use fertilizers without due regard for the special needs of their soils. Often they buy the cheapest grades. Or they use very small quantities.

That such unscientific use of fertilizers has proved profitable indicates what it can accomplish for wheat growers if used more carefully and intelligently.

The best way to learn just what fertilizers will pay you best is to make comparative tests on a small scale with your soils—then use a sufficient amount and you will undoubtedly increase not only the average yields, but your profits as well.
